The world of Dungeon Runner is a fantasy world, in which you, as a cave-discovering hero, will fight against a horde of monsters and solve riddles in order to free the legendary Masterpieces from their endless prison in the Dungeon that's full of monsters. The goal is to unlock each level and to make it to the next to find out what awaits you in the next dungeon. The levels in the game are grouped into chapters. The levels are divided into levels. Each level contains several dungeons that are usually randomized and will provide you with new challenges. Every dungeon level has a boss who awaits you in the dungeon. Each boss has its own style and behaviour that needs to be taken under consideration and mastered. Here, the player is faced with several tasks to accomplish. 24 Comments Hey there, Bjorg is a great name, although I think we should change the gender of the character in the art and name. A good visual representation of a cave discoverer. But maybe it should be a boss instead of a hero! I, for one, never considered Goombas to be a particularly classic game animal. I thought it more appropriate to talk about ant or beaver, who might be a more appealing game animal to a cave-discovering adventurer. But we all know that the only true game animal is the feline. I was looking for a new contender to replace the feline in this game. Once you've discovered the cauldron, you are very pleased to discover a potion that will transform your initial subject into an incredibly lean and sporting beast. It seems like the tone of the game is already changed. It may be a bit too violent in later stages. At least it seems to be well animated. The soundtrack is really nice! It's appropriate for a game like this and deserves to be featured in a game like this. The music is definitely catchy and gives the player a dynamic feeling. The use of sound effects is also very appropriate and enhances the fun-experience. When you have beaten the level, you will be as strong as an actual cave discoverer. The dragon in the background is based on the iconic dragon from the original "Legend of Zelda". But it's a bit colorful and about as good looking as he can be. I'm really excited to see what else the game has to offer! "Like most modern

Game Environment: A Night in the Forgotten Castle

On a snowy night a young boy and a woman are having an argument outside the large castle where he is living. Apparently the husband wants to leave his wife but the young person won't let him in. He has little more than his shadow as his companion, who lives with him and his mother. She is the only one he does not hate, even though she does not love him. He does not know if the woman is his mother - although he has a ridiculous scar above his eye - or the wife of his father. The castle is very old and run-down, partially buried in snow. It is very difficult to recognize what is actually right in the castle. There is a distinct feeling of waste and decay - with a tinge of danger. Throughout the course of the game you cannot be sure if it is friend or foe who continues to haunt this place of the past, or if the objects in the castle are just traps.

Castle Interior

You enter the castle and walk around in the interior. The rooms are sparsely furnished and a bit dark. The lamps are partly darkly covered with rags or draped with gold curtains. Not only here stands a stage-set where the characters appear. Only a few correspond to the current events, but they can be taken as a hint. New dialogues and puzzles are added in the course of time - as free text is integrated or as an image in an overlay. These solutions only appear when the complete dialogue or sequence is

There is a lightning storm above, and on the ground below there is a horde of slugs. The slugs are very jealous of your joy and have decided to drop from the skies and attack you. Your only goal is to avoid them as much as possible and you can do so by slowly turning your character into a helix. As soon as you reach the left side of the screen (when the dot on the top left corner of the screen turns into a downwards pointing triangle) you're ready to move. Use the arrow keys to tilt your character and watch for the laser beams shooting from the right of the screen. You can only move horizontally, you cannot slide sideways, and if you hit any of the walls you will be pushed back and you will lose a life. The closer you get to the top of the screen without getting hit, the more points you will earn for your score. You have 4 lives, once you run out of lives your game is over. To start a new game you should wait for the storm to calm down and the slugs to go back to sleep. You can change the settings by pressing the E key. You can toggle between the different modes by pressing the Y key. The game will keep track of your total score, which will be shown in a grid on the top left of the screen. You can clear the score by pressing the S key. The mouse controls are used for zoom. The F key is used for a pause, but you can also use the F key to access the settings. If you use the mouse it will toggles between two small rectangles at the bottom of the screen which allow you to toggle back and forth between the two main game modes. The settings menu is available by pressing the A key. Controls Use the Arrow Keys to move the character S to pause the game Y to toggle between the different game modes E to toggle the full screen effects Mouse will zoom in and out F to toggle the game settings menu When you're looking at the settings menu press the I key to get back to the game Make sure you enjoy the game, please let me know if you find any bugs or have any ideas to make the game even better. Fully inspired by Cookie Clicker and the subsequent memedom from millions of players. This game is not very reliable as it's basically just a shitty clone of the c9d1549cdd
